Does not sanctity mean the absolute rejection and renunciation of all that accords with nature? The body, after all, consists not of one organ but of many; if the foot should say, I am not the hand, and therefore I do not belong to the body, does it belong to the body any the less for that?

Nevertheless, the abnegation of the religious and of the lay person is the same. My mother died of stomach cancer when he was six. Utopianism – Bonhoeffer comments that idealism is the enemy of community.
